

Africa's Changemakers

Through their voices, art or skills, these changemakers do more than dream of a brighter future for Africa, they take steps to create it

unicef

“They’re not presidents and policymakers; they’re not rich and famous ... they’re ordinary men and women who do extraordinary things for one reason: to create change in their own communities.

These are people who will move mountains, rock by rock, to realize their vision for Africa. They are the real change makers – and they’re standing up to make a difference.”

Don't miss viewing this inspiring video essay posted by UNICEF, an agency of the United Nations responsible for providing humanitarian and developmental aid to children worldwide. The focus of this current page is on changemakers in west & central Africa.

<https://www.unicef.org/wca/changemakers>

There you'll meet Amy Sow, a painter in Mauritania who uses her art work to end violence to women, & Aminu Ahmed Tudun-Wada, a polio victim who makes & sells tricycles in Nigeria so that children with disabilities can go to school, as well as Karima Grant who started Senegal's first cultural & educational hub for children. And others from Gambia, Ghana & Burkina Faso.

How are you changing your world today?

